

MARYMOUNT

TARRYTOWN
ON THE HUDSON
N.Y.

MARYMOUNT SCHOOL, under the direction of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary, is situated at Tarrytown-on-Hudson, that fascinating suburb of New York City so famous in history, literature and art. It was donated by James Butler, K. C. G., in memory of his wife, and is under the special patronage of His Eminence, John Cardinal Farley, Archbishop of New York.

The Mother House of the Order is in France.

Ideally situated, crowning as it does a height above the historic Hudson, this unusual School commands an outlook both exquisite and picturesque. Conveniently near New York City, the student has all the advantages and conveniences of the town, combined with the healthful quiet and freedom of the glorious country. The grounds are extensive and impressive—the splendid group of buildings, the magnificent approach and stately entrances combine to give it the appearance of a vast country estate.

The School is primarily a home wherein parental interest is taken in the girls and home comforts are permitted. Both a finishing and a preparatory school, it aims to develop the girls morally, intellectually and physically. Special attention is given to the formation of character and to a training in the observance of all the proprieties of individual and social life. There is a distinctly home atmosphere about the School due to the limited number of students received and to the devotion and care of the Religious.

The new school buildings are spacious, well-ventilated and modern in every appointment; the bedrooms, single and double, are attractive, well-lighted and heated, and open to sunshine. So fortunate is the School in its well-equipped premises and lovely surroundings of hills and dales that it offers a variety of healthful sports, such as tennis, skating, riding, etc.

Marymount, which is registered by the New York State Board of Regents, provides for three general courses: The Preparatory, Academic and a two years' Collegiate Course, all of which, besides the usual curriculum, offer special work in the Fine and Technical Arts.
